Sound Men In Labor

—by—
SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

With a lot of folks frothing and fuming over the arrogant demands of labor leaders, and labor leaders threatening the politicians with the axe, this may be a good time to mention some of the sound and sensible things being done by moderate men in the labor movement.

If we are to avoid a near civil war in the months ahead, the public must support the moderates, especially at the local level. Otherwise, power will move into the hands of the extremists.

The U. A. W.-C. I. O. workers at the Ford Motor plants have just voted to ratify a contract that men who foment illegitimate strikes shall be subject to discharge, both by the employers and from the union.

In short, they will not tolerate wildcat strikes. The top boys in the U. A. W. don't like this heavy hand on the trouble makers, but the men who build automobiles are for it.

Then, too, I notice with pleasure that the real Americans in organized labor are getting fed up with the Communists and fellow-travelers who want to put American workmen under the thumb of Moscow.

More glad tidings from the "District 59 News" of the United Mine Workers. They are getting their bellies full of big government in Washington—the "horde of bleeding heart" college professors and social workers. Gosh, this sounds as if I had written it. They go on, "it costs the working people as much, if not more, to support 3,500,000 political bureaucrats as it has always cost the working people to support the idle rich." This is music to my ears. It would please old Tom Jefferson himself, who said, "nor take from the mouth of labor the bread that it has earned."

Next, I take pleasure in presenting the A. F. of L. electrical workers who are offering $6,000 in prizes for the best ideas for speeding construction and lowering the building costs of homes. Bully for you, electrical workers!

And here is John L. Lewis, Big John himself. I quote: "Every effort must be made to bring about increased production per man per day. . . . Increased production per day is largely the answer to the problem of continuity of employment and the maintenance of wage and condition standards."

Scander words were never spoken. "Increased production per man per day." This is the golden ladder to higher wages and lower costs that helps everyone up and pushes no one down.

Then, I hang a big blue ribbon on "Labor's Monthly Survey" of the A. F. of L. As a sample of clear thinking and sound Americanism, I quote: "This is the American way forward to higher living standards. Industry's profits should bring: (1) wage increases; (2) price reductions; (3) reward for management as an incentive to improve production. Also, reserves must be

White Cross Anniversary Is Marked at Eddington

EDDINGTON, June 7.—The White Cross Society of Eddington Presbyterian Church conducted its 10th anniversary celebration at the home of Miss Isabella Jones on Wednesday. The Society had its beginning as a branch of the missionary society of the church, when a small group organized to fold surgical dressings for home and foreign mission work. Since that time it has increased in membership.

A brief history of the White Cross was read by Mrs. Alfred Thompson. Table decorations were in pink and white. Games were played and ice cream and cookies served to 23. "Mother Goose" gave each member a small gift. The hostesses were Miss Jones, Mrs. Alfred Thompson and Mrs. George Spertling.

During the afternoon it was decided to adopt for another year a foster child, little Iris Oakley, of England. One year ago the organization adopted her through the Foster Parents Plan for War Children, Inc., New York City, N. Y.

Due to repeated requests from liberated countries for clothing, bedding and small household utensils, the organization has a warehouse in New York City to serve as a merchandise collection depot. Clothing of all kinds for men, women, children and babies is needed, shoes most of all. Household articles, linens, soaps, cans of disinfectant as well as canned, dried and boxed non-perishable food (no glass) are needed. Anyone sending a large carton or package will have the shipping charges paid by the organization. The greatest need now is for boys' clothing, it is said.

BEVIN'S "HARD ROAD"

If Great Britain pulls out of the swamp in which she has lost herself, and returns to her one-time proud position as a world leader, it will be due largely to her good fortune in having leaders who tell her people the truth in straightforward, human and understandable terms.

Winston Churchill's profound effect upon British policy was the result of the fact that he had a point of view of which he was not ashamed, that he knew why he believed as he did, and that he was able to say his piece with candor and conviction.

The same directness and personal touch appear strongly in the recent address by Foreign Secretary Bevin in the House of Commons.

This speech is of historic importance, because it recognizes fully what our own American leadership has refused to put in words to this country's population—that world peace is impossible under existing conditions, and that thus far the United Nations program is a failure.

But it is an appealing document, for it shows clearly the mental turmoil and anxiety of the British statesman. Quite as much light is shed on the personal reactions of this policy-maker who finds himself "in the middle" of so many cross-currents, as on the causes of the world deadlock.

Bevin came to office as a result of a political upheaval largely inspired by the ideology of the nation which he now reluctantly concedes is the main stumbling block to peace—Russia.

The theme of the election in which Bevin's party overthrew the Churchill conservatives was that Churchill had been too "suspicious" of Stalin, and that the welfare of the English people called for "collaboration" with Russia.

TYPING AND RAMBLER AWARDS PRESENTED

Winner of Mothers' Ass'n Essay Contest Announced On Class Night

PLAY IS ALSO STAGED

Endeavoring to prove that "All's Well That Doesn't End," members of the senior class of Bristol high school had a presentation of three acts under that title at class night exercises last evening. The Bristol high school auditorium was filled for the occasion.

A number of awards were made, and announcement included the winner of the Mothers' Association essay contest prize. The contest winner is Raymond C. Sidorsky.

"Rambler" pins were presented, recipients being: Marie Ostrowski, Anna Franceschini, June Siler, Lois Hilbert, Ada Harbers, Marian Kerest, Mary Lou Feehan, Winfield Gibbs, Frieda Hamm, Eleanor Dirisi, Mary Napoli, Joseph Lentini, John Miccozzi.

Typing awards were presented to: Joseph Indelicato, Eleanor Dirisi, Irene Burke, Virginia Kehler, Helen Asay, Irma Reilly, Rita Fiorita, Doris Riebel, Frieda Hamm, Lois Hilbert, Theresa Cahill, Jean Martin.

The settings for "All's Well That Doesn't End," were in the year 1951, the class of 1946 having a reunion, celebrating by taking a rocket ship trip to Mars.

With the rocket ship on its way the passengers were seen amusing themselves in the club car, all anxious to hear news of each other for the past 35 years.

A high point of the play was the crash of the ship, leaving the passengers stranded on an unknown planet. Act II found King Henry and Queen Eugene, monarch of the Planet Vogesooch (Hooesooch reversed), bickering over who had the best entertainment to present. At that point a messenger brought news of the crash and the queen decided to have the people from the ship provide a new and novel entertainment or be thrown in the Milky Way.

Locked in the queen's dungeon, the earth people awaited their fate, and much disillusioned, decided to write their last will and testament. Later they were seen trying to satisfy Queen Eugene's desire for "different entertainment," with a grand surprise ending.

Participants and parts they portrayed are:

STRESSES NEED OF STATESMEN IN THE WORLD'S AFFAIRS

Capt. Wm. Haskell, of The New York Herald-Tribune, Addresses Service Clubs

JOINT MEETING HELD

Burlington and Bristol Groups Resume Their Annual Meetings

The Elks' Home last night was the scene of the first combined meeting of the service clubs of Burlington and Bristol held since the ending of the war, when the Kiwanis and Young Men's clubs of Burlington met with the Rotary and Exchange clubs of Bristol. This marked the resumption of a tradition inaugurated with the completion of the Burlington-Bristol bridge in May, 1931, and observed annually ever since until the recent war rendered the meetings unfeasible.

The visiting clubs were met at the Pennsylvania end of the bridge by a motor caravan of members of the Bristol clubs, and escorted to the meeting place on Radcliffe St. Members of the Pennsylvania State Police and of the Bristol police accompanied the long column of cars.

At the Elks' Home a clam and chicken dinner was served to more than 100 members and guests. David Sheerer, president of the Exchange Club, presided. After calling upon the presidents of the guest clubs, each of whom responded with a brief message of good will and gratitude that it had again become possible to resume this neighborly tradition, Mr. Sheerer called upon Sheridan B. Metz, vice-president of the Exchange Club, to introduce the principal speaker of the evening, Captain William Haskell, first assistant to the president of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Captain Haskell, a veteran of World War I and a news correspondent with world-wide experience, made a moving plea for a more intelligent and a more diligent exercise of opinion on the part of the general public on the vital issues of the day. Commenting upon the statement made by Henry Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, some time ago to the effect that every congressman was bound to follow the orders and dictates of his political party and if he failed to do so, should be read out of the party, Captain Haskell deplored the fact that so many Congressmen today are actually nothing more than politicians with an eye constantly fixed upon re-election, rather than statesmen, with character, principle and vision. To correct this deplorable condition, the public at large must be ever on the watch, so that the congressman or, for that matter, any high public official, who one day definitely and unequivocally supports one view, cannot the next day turn around and as definitely support exactly the opposite view, for obviously political reasons, and get away with it.

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

The bread shortage is not as bad as represented . . . one of our neighbors got eight loaves in one day within a radius of 30 miles.

She had to throw six in the garbage later but she proved it could be done.

She is the same woman who has accumulated 20 pairs of nylons but doesn't wear them because stockings are hard to get.

From the way people are buying up bread it is obvious that the most popular sandwich must be one slice of wheat between two slices of rye.

At the moment many are confused . . . there is a tendency to blame Truman but Hoover still looks tempting.

Mr. Truman is now being belted for not carrying out the policies of his predecessor . . . this is one he walked into.

He should have known that a man who sets out to walk in another man's shoes pleases few who liked the other man and none who didn't.

Pepper looks good for '48 . . . he has that facility Truman lacks for switching attention from wheat and Whitney to Franco.

CHINA'S CRITICAL TRUCE DAYS BEGIN

Nanking—China's "critical fifteen days" of truce began today when Communist negotiator Chou En-Lai flew to Yenan in Gen. George C. Marshall's silver C-54 to receive instructions from Communist party chiefs. Until Chou returns with the Communist party's concessions and acceptance or rejection of Gen. Marshall's permanent peace plans, negotiations in the Chinese capital are stalled.

The seriousness and scope of the decisions to be made by the Communist party within the next few days indicates Yenan will be a meeting of top-rung Communists in the party's political bureau.

ANTHRACITE NEGOTIATIONS RESUMED

New York—Sub-committees of anthracite operators and the United Mine Workers resumed their negotiation conferences shortly after 10:15 A. M. (EDT) today with prospects bright for an agreement soon to cover the nation's hard coal industry.

Neither the operators nor miners had any statements as the conference sat around the conference table. But it appeared likely that a contract covering wages and working conditions for 75,000 northeastern Pennsylvania hard coal miners might be signed later today.

RUSSIA AND FOOD
For their own sake as well as for the sake of hungry human beings everywhere, it is to be hoped that the Russians will reconsider their reported refusal to work with the United States and Britain in solving the world food problem. They cannot afford to appear unresponsive to mankind's need in this time of crisis.
The reason given for Premier Stalin's decision to reject President Truman's appeal for cooperation is that the plea came too late because commitments already made prevented fulfillment of the American request. A Moscow radio broadcast declared that Russian wheat to a total of 1,100,000 tons had been allocated for shipment abroad and that Soviet resources are limited. Russia takes the cold attitude that she has done her part.
But even if that were true, the position taken by the Kremlin is almost certain to be misunderstood. At a time like this every nation—not the United States alone—is morally bound to cooperate with all others to find the answers.

It is significant that the joint British-American declaration calls for "even more energetic measures throughout the world." At the same time it was announced that Britain would reduce her wheat requirements 200,000 tons between now and September and that the United States has agreed to standard rations in the British and American zones in Germany.
The Russians had no part in either the statement or the measures taken. Their aloofness is costing them heavily in the world's esteem.

ROOF OF THE CONTINENT
Canada and the United States, whose unfortified common border long has been a symbol to the world of how neighbors should live with their neighbors in harmony, have moved now even closer together, this time in the interest of their mutual security. A joint Arctic defense plan has been announced in Ottawa and Washington.
The plan calls for the same close cooperation in peace for the defense of North America as existed during the war.
The joint defense plan is not an alliance, but it involves the precedent of a free commonwealth in the British association of nations associating itself in a military agreement with another nation.
The announcement follows completion of Operation Musk-Ox, which was a test of military equipment in the far northland, which is generally conceded to have proved that the north is no longer impregnable. Improvements in equipment for warfare there were indicated by the maneuver.
Not mentioned in the official announcement of the defense plan is the fact that one of the great sources of uranium in the world is within the Canadian Arctic Circle.

It is now Bevin's painful task to inform his nation that collaborator with Russia is impossible until Russia changes her plans; that the "one world" concept has been indefinitely postponed; and that, in effect, the Churchill policy is not merely the correct, but substantially the only, program England can follow.
The unhappiness of the statesman over his message is well shown in the text of his talk by his constant repetition of such phrases as: "I hope I am not unduly pessimistic."
But he made most painfully clear that his pessimism was justified by his narrative of the manner in which free and open discussion of various key problems has been blocked by Russia.
For example:
"I rather resent Mr. Molotov's attitude. When you put up a proposal that he does not agree with, he seems to imply that you are dictating."
Specifically, he pointed out that this unwillingness of Russia to modify its own plans, or even to talk them over, was blocking settlement of such important questions as post-war rule of Germany, transfer of the Saar to France, control of the Danube as a shipping route, ownership of Trieste, and many others.
Without over-emphasis, Bevin traces the breakdown to the spot where it actually belongs—to the Yalta conference in which Churchill and the late President Roosevelt surrendered to Stalin and gave him the veto power which now has blocked world co-operation and opened the door to World War III.
Said he:
"It is difficult for us to accept the rule of one party or one nation. It is an intolerable situation and we shall never get peace if that goes on."
Indirectly summarizing the present Russian policy, he spoke of the difficulties being created because one nation (armed with the veto power) insists on harnessing of a few satellite weak states as buffers between them and possible future aggression. But I will not admit failure yet."
Bevin expressed the hope, though he painted it as faint indeed, that Russia might repent and reform. But most obviously he paved the way in his British hearers' minds for exactly the two-nation alliance between Britain and the United States which Churchill recently demanded. His remarks on the negotiations for future ownership of the island turned over to the U. S. prior to the War, coupled with his remark that he hoped these would not be construed as proving "we are engaged in some sort of a conspiracy," allow no other interpretation.
Truly, as Bevin said: "The road to peace-making is a very, very hard one."

Church appealing for funds
The Rev. John W. Maybury, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, 319 Wood street, which church is marking its second anniversary, announces that an intensive effort to raise funds toward a building and improvement program will be made, to rehabilitate the place of worship.
He states that: "A general appeal will be made, as it is felt residents would like to see the old landmark preserved, which has stood in Bristol for over 100 years. Some business firms have contributed to this fund already."

Owing to the fact many farmers were unable to work in their fields because of the wet weather, attendance at the combination sale conducted by the Rice brothers, near Solebury, on Tuesday, was somewhat larger than usual. It was estimated at least 1000 persons attended the auction, proceeds of which amounted to $6504.86. The sale of the poultry, which was not quite as plentiful, totaled $1803.17.
The sale of livestock in general was good, and fair prices were received. Prices received for the livestock follow: Five cows, $92 to $150; five heifers, $56 to $87; 28 calves, $6.25 to $17.50 each and $18.60 per hundred; three bulls, $52 to $89; nine sheep, $9 to $15.50, and 27 goats, $3.50 to $16.

Electricity works for peanuts!
AND if you aren't up on today's expressive slang, peanuts means a very small amount of money. Like your electric bill. It really is peanuts, isn't it—compared to most other items in your family budget?
While the cost of most things climbed through the years—the price of electric service kept right on going down. Even in wartime, when practically all prices popped up, electricity actually became a few peanuts cheaper.
As a matter of fact, the average American family gets twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 20 years ago!
All of this goes to prove an important point. Sound business management—and experienced employees—together have given the American people dependable, low-priced electric service—the best and the most in the world! You'll enjoy that service even more in the electric years ahead.

Bright Garnishes Lure Appetites

One of the best ways to keep appetites up to par in the spring is to pay special attention to the appearance of the foods you serve. "We eat with our eyes" is a familiar saying, and there is a great deal of truth in it.

Not only should each dish look appetizing, but the meal as a whole should be planned with a thought for variety and harmony in the color and shape of the various foods. Additional interest may be provided by garnishing platters cleverly.

For the most part, garnishes that are edible are the best, according to Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. They may be simple or elaborate, according to your taste and artistic ability. The simplest garnishes are often the most effective, especially if they are original.

Here are a few suggestions for garnishing your springtime meat platters. These will undoubtedly suggest other possibilities: Apple rings, panfried or baked, with a bit of bright-colored jelly in the center, make an appropriate garnish for pork chops or a pork roast.

Small whole carrots browned in ham fat make an attractive border around a slice of ham. Mashed potato cups filled with green peas or diced vegetables are an excellent accompaniment to serve on the platter with broiled lamb patties.

Sprigs of parsley, lemon slices cut in fancy shapes, or watercress garnish a steak platter attractively. A border of French fries or lattice potatoes is also effective. Hot pickled beets, sliced and topped with slices of hard-cooked eggs, give a decorative touch to browned corned beef hash or any other kind of hash.

Thin slices of orange, with rind left on, topped with a cube or teaspoonful of jelly, are attractive either on a meat platter or individual plates. Use mint jelly with lamb chops, crabapple or currant jelly with ham, canned cranberry sauce with beef.

Flavor of Pork Brought Out By Cooking Well

Now that there is more pork available, it's a good idea to remember the special cooking rules that apply to pork, so that its rich, delicious flavor may be enjoyed to the full.

Pork is a tender meat, but it should always be cooked well done, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. Any good-sized, chunky pork cut may be roasted, including cuts from the loin, leg and shoulder. A moderate oven temperature, or 350 degrees F., is best for roasting fresh pork.

Broiling is the preferred method of cooking the smaller cuts, such as pork chops and steaks. This method makes it possible to have the meat thoroughly cooked, and at the same time keep the chops from becoming too dry. If the chops have considerable fat on them, it is not necessary to add extra fat for broiling. After broiling, the chops are covered and cooked slowly.

ly, with or without the addition of liquid.

To provide more variety in meals, pork chops may be cooked and served in different ways, in combination with other foods. Miss Cline suggests this casserole, which includes pork chops, rice and tomatoes, as a tempting main dish for a convenient oven meal.

Pork Chop Casserole
6 pork chops
1 cup uncooked rice
1/2 green pepper, diced
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 cups cooked or canned tomatoes
Water, as needed.

Brown pork chops in their own fat in frying-pan. Remove chops; add rice and brown lightly. Combine browned rice with green pepper, onion and seasonings in casserole. Add tomatoes. Place chops on top, cover, and cook in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 1/2 hours. As rice absorbs the liquid, it may be necessary to lift casserole cover and add small amount of water. Serves 6.

General Federation of Clubs Plans Sessions in Chicago

The General Federation of Women's Clubs with a membership of nearly 17,000 clubs announces its coming convention to be held June 17 to June 22 at the Hotel Stevens, Chicago, Ill.

The president, Mrs. LaFell Dickinson, from her office in Washington emphasizes the interest of club women in public affairs, national and international, and in proposed legislation for the support of the United Nations. This is evidenced by the selection of such prominent speakers as Captain Harold Stussen; Director General Fiorella LaGuardia of the UNRRA; Fannie Hurst; Harold C. Urey; Senator Brien McMahon, chairman of the Special Senate Committee on Atomic Energy; U. S. Attorney General Tom C. Clarke; Major General Leslie R. Groves; Major General Graves Blanchard Erskine; Colonel Mary Agnes Brown; the Honorable Archibald MacLeish; representatives of capital and labor; and eminent speakers on current problems.

The Allied Nations Forum will present a discussion of the United Nations' problem by His Excellency, Dr. Wei Taoming of China; the French Ambassador, His Excellency, Henri Bonnet; the British Ambassador, the Right Honorable Sir Archibald Kerr (Lord Inverchapel); and representatives of Russia and of the United States.

"THE LOST TRAIL"

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church

Dear Father of us we thank Thee for the gift of life. May we enrich it by walking with Jesus Christ Who is Lord of life and Who alone can give us what we at last seek—the abundant life. During these days of universal suffering and distress may we rediscover our lost ability to feel for and to feel with people. Our hearts bleed as we think of the Chicago fire and the physical lives that were lost. May we be no less concerned about the souls of people, round about us, who may be eternally lost. May we seek those things "from above" which no earthly flame can destroy. We pray in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Sportsmen's Briefs

By JOE ELBERSON

Bristol meets... next Tuesday, June 11th, the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association will hold its June meeting in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Walnut and Radcliffe streets. The meeting will get underway at 8 p. m. President John Johnson urges all members to be on hand for the transaction of several important items of business. All sportsmen are invited to attend.

Maybe a record... in what may be a State record for any division of nine counties, the sportsmen of southeastern Pennsylvania live-trapped and later transferred a total of 10,197 rabbits during the winter of 1945-46, according to figures compiled by Supervisors M. J. Golden, West Reading, and Jay C. Gifford, Forty Fort.

The all high division record of 10,197 rabbits is 1,334 higher than the winter previous when 8,863 bunnies were transferred. Bucks County was fifth with a total of 756, an increase of 537 over the preceding year. Here are the totals by counties: Berks, 3,390; Lehigh, 1,641; Northampton, 1,351; Montgomery, 1,222; Bucks, 756; Chester, 583; Philadelphia, 521; Delaware, 371; and Schuylkill, 362.

More walleyes... while fishing a few days ago below New Hope in the River with Al Rodgers and Joe Lapenta we hooked into and landed two nice walleye pike. Both were taken on worms. Season in the River, however, doesn't come in until June 15th, so they're both waiting to be caught again.

Really moving... the fastest factory-made bullet in the world is the .220 Swift. Actually only a .22, and with its bullet weighing little more than the .22 long rifle bullet, the Swift has a speed at the muzzle (muzzle velocity) of 4,140 feet per second against 1,395 for the .22 high power long rifle and 2,800 for the standard military service cartridge which you may also call a .30-06.

High waters provide some sport... the recent flood conditions in this section resulted in a number of carp and catfish moving up Otter's Creek toward the dam at Silver Lake, and during the last few days any number of catfish and carp have been caught.

Salt water notes... fished again last Friday at Tuckerton with George Colville. We got out in the Bay about 7 in the evening and proceeded to feed the blowfish and crabs. When darkness arrived we had caught just two croakers. We then spent the next two hours trying to find our way back in... an exceptionally high tide had covered all the meadows and creeks and blotted out all our usual markers.

A much better haul than ours was made by Frank Lynn, Roy Houser and his two sons, William Stanton, Robert VanAken and Charles Elliott when this party fished 15 miles out of Ocean City on Tuesday. They returned with 134 fish—weakies, black sea bass, blues, and spots. Clams and squid formed the bait. Pool for the biggest fish was won by Houser with a 4½ pound weakfish.

On Wednesday five Mill street businessmen, Sidney Paroly, Bernie Ballow, Sidney Popkin, Morris Gelman and Marty Hopkins, fished in Delaware Bay. They returned with a catch of 38 weakies and croakers.

YOUNG PITCHES TEAM TO VICTORY

The Bristol Township team hit the ball hard to whip Penn A. C., 12-3, last evening in a Bristol Youth League tilt played at Edgely.

The Township lads had a total of 15 safe blows and were led at the plate by Freddie Hibbs who had three bingles.

Bob Young pitched his usual steady game for the Township boys and succeeded in holding the Penn A. C. to three hits. Young also contributed a home run and single to his team's attack.

The Morrell-managed lads put the game on ice in the third inning when they made six runs on seven hits and a walk. In this inning, Paul Killian and Elker had doubles.
